Introduction

Community4Celiac was founded by Marci Launer and Staci Leibson. Marci Launer, has been living with Celiac Disease for 15 years and Staci Leibson, whose son has Celiac Disease.

Our mission is to enhance the lives of those living with Celiac Disease. We understand firsthand the challenges that living with this disease presents for those who have it and their families.

As the diagnosis of Celiac Disease in kids is on the rise, the need for research is more critical than ever.

We hope to continue to build our community and for a future where there is a treatment and eventually a cure.

About Us

Community4Celiac was founded by Marci Launer and Staci Leibson. Marci Launer, has been living with Celiac Disease for 15 years and Staci Leibson, whose son has Celiac Disease.

Marci Launer, is a practicing Speech Language Pathologist, private practice owner, wife and proud mother of two. Marci is passionate about helping others in both her career and throughout the Celiac Community. Marci has been gluten free for 15 years. Marci's daughter Josie, 6, was diagnosed with Celiac Disease at the age of 5.

Marci and her family are starting their journey in transitioning Josie to a gluten free diet and lifestyle. Marci is honored to be able to learn from the members of Community4Celiac in a different way now that she is not only a person living with Celiac but a parent of a child with Celiac. Marci loves adventure, she enjoys traveling across the country on road trips with her husband Adam, daughter Josie and her big brother Jace .

Staci Leibson is the parent of a son, Jude Leibson, 11, who was diagnosed with Celiac Disease at the age of 8. Since then, Jude and Staci enjoy scouring the tristate area for the best Gluten Free foods around!

Staci is the manager of investor relationships for Nano Safe Coatings. Additionally, Staci runs the mother/ children fashion section of Long Island Family and Long Island Press. As Staci is a lifelong learner (with four Masters degrees in General and Special Education), she is a life coach for individuals with Celiac Disease and is the founder of The Celiac Shift™ (@TheCeliacShift). Staci is married to Alex Leibson, and they share two other amazing children, Dash and Pace.

About The Event

With great pride and hopeful anticipation, we invite you to join us in our enthusiasm for our third Community4Celiac Celiac Disease Fundraiser.

We invite you to sponsor an evening of cocktails and comedy to benefit Community4Celiac on July 8th 2026, at The Royalton Mansion in Roslyn, New York. This evening will feature comedian Robyn Schall. Robyn Shall is a stand-up comedian, actress, and host whose "2020 Goals List" video went viral (10 million+ views), drawing high praise from such celebs as Oprah, The Kardashians, Jennifer Garner and Katie Couric.

Robyn is currently a digital correspondent on NBC's "The Kelly Clarkson Show". Prior to that, Robyn was the former host of the Betches Media weekly advice podcast "Call Waiting" and the Pinterest TV's live streaming show "The Goods", where she showcased products from brands including Patagonia, Melody Ehsani and Crown Affair. She now hosts a new comedy podcast Schall We Talk, where you never know what chaos will unfold. Robyn also hosted her own segments/interviews for Katie Couric Presents, appearing as a guest on multiple shows including "The Drew Barrymore Show" and took over the @todayshow Instagram handle for Amazon Prime Day.

Robyn has performed her stand-up all over the world including three tours overseas for the US troops and all over Europe, Asia, Middle East, and Australia. Robyn's comedy album, "Guilty Pleasure" debuted at #1 on the iTunes charts and was featured multiple times on SiriusXM radio. Robyn is currently touring the country with her live, interactive show "The Robyn Schall Experience".
